

Get Smart with Art

Franz Marc was born in Munich, Germany in 1880 and raised by his artist father and very strict mother. He was a serious child. He decided to follow in his father's footsteps and become an artist at the age of 20. He was influenced by the French Impressionists who painted with bright colors. In fact, he once said that he, "felt like a roe deer in an enchanted forest" when walking among the Impressionist gallery. He may have made this comment because of his intense love for nature and animals.

Get Smart with Art

Franz Marc was born in Munich, Germany in 1880 and raised by his artist father and very strict mother. He was a serious child. He decided to follow in his father's footsteps and become an artist at the age of 20. He was influenced by the French Impressionists who painted with bright colors. In fact, he once said that he, "felt like a roe deer in an enchanted forest" when walking among the Impressionist gallery. He may have made this comment because of his intense love for nature and animals.

Get Smart with Art

Franz Marc was born in Munich, Germany in 1880 and raised by his artist father and very strict mother. He was a serious child. He decided to follow in his father's footsteps and become an artist at the age of 20. He was influenced by the French Impressionists who painted with bright colors. In fact, he once said that he, "felt like a roe deer in an enchanted forest" when walking among the Impressionist gallery. He may have made this comment because of his intense love for nature and animals.

Get Smart with Art

Franz Marc was born in Munich, Germany in 1880 and raised by his artist father and very strict mother. He was a serious child. He decided to follow in his father's footsteps and become an artist at the age of 20. He was influenced by the French Impressionists who painted with bright colors. In fact, he once said that he, "felt like a roe deer in an enchanted forest" when walking among the Impressionist gallery. He may have made this comment because of his intense love for nature and animals.

Get Smart with Art

Franz Marc was born in Munich, Germany in 1880 and raised by his artist father and very strict mother. He was a serious child. He decided to follow in his father's footsteps and become an artist at the age of 20. He was influenced by the French Impressionists who painted with bright colors. In fact, he once said that he, "felt like a roe deer in an enchanted forest" when walking among the Impressionist gallery. He may have made this comment because of his intense love for nature and animals.

Get Smart with Art

Franz Marc was born in Munich, Germany in 1880 and raised by his artist father and very strict mother. He was a serious child. He decided to follow in his father's footsteps and become an artist at the age of 20. He was influenced by the French Impressionists who painted with bright colors. In fact, he once said that he, "felt like a roe deer in an enchanted forest" when walking among the Impressionist gallery. He may have made this comment because of his intense love for nature and animals.

Get Smart with Art

Franz Marc was born in Munich, Germany in 1880 and raised by his artist father and very strict mother. He was a serious child. He decided to follow in his father's footsteps and become an artist at the age of 20. He was influenced by the French Impressionists who painted with bright colors. In fact, he once said that he, "felt like a roe deer in an enchanted forest" when walking among the Impressionist gallery. He may have made this comment because of his intense love for nature and animals.