

Pierre-Auguste Renoir

1841-1919 Impressionist

Born in Limoges, France. He was interested in drawing, shapes and figures, from a very young age. He found work that relied on his ability to paint and draw. While in Paris he met several other young artists, namely Claude Monet, Alfred Sisley and Frederic Bazille. The four young men, working together to improve their art, created a new artistic style called Impressionism.

Pierre-Auguste Renoir

1841-1919 Impressionist

Born in Limoges, France. He was interested in drawing, shapes and figures, from a very young age. He found work that relied on his ability to paint and draw. While in Paris he met several other young artists, namely Claude Monet, Alfred Sisley and Frederic Bazille. The four young men, working together to improve their art, created a new artistic style called Impressionism.

Pierre-Auguste Renoir

1841-1919 Impressionist

Born in Limoges, France. He was interested in drawing, shapes and figures, from a very young age. He found work that relied on his ability to paint and draw. While in Paris he met several other young artists, namely Claude Monet, Alfred Sisley and Frederic Bazille. The four young men, working together to improve their art, created a new artistic style called Impressionism.

Pierre-Auguste Renoir

1841-1919 Impressionist

Born in Limoges, France. He was interested in drawing, shapes and figures, from a very young age. He found work that relied on his ability to paint and draw. While in Paris he met several other young artists, namely Claude Monet, Alfred Sisley and Frederic Bazille. The four young men, working together to improve their art, created a new artistic style called Impressionism.

Pierre-Auguste Renoir

1841-1919 Impressionist

Born in Limoges, France. He was interested in drawing, shapes and figures, from a very young age. He found work that relied on his ability to paint and draw. While in Paris he met several other young artists, namely Claude Monet, Alfred Sisley and Frederic Bazille. The four young men, working together to improve their art, created a new artistic style called Impressionism.

Pierre-Auguste Renoir

1841-1919 Impressionist

Born in Limoges, France. He was interested in drawing, shapes and figures, from a very young age. He found work that relied on his ability to paint and draw. While in Paris he met several other young artists, namely Claude Monet, Alfred Sisley and Frederic Bazille. The four young men, working together to improve their art, created a new artistic style called Impressionism.